Acknowledgments

To Miss Pfeiffer and Mr. Hennessey: We, the Class of 1946, wish to extend our very sincere thanks to you for your tireless and unremitting efforts in preparing the Yearbook for publication, a task to which you gave endless hours. We also wish to thank you for the encouragement you gave us when the "path to the press" became somewhat difficult, rough, and arduous. In these and many other ways, you have hastened and facilitated the progress of the Yearbook, and for this help we are deeply grateful.

We wish also to acknowledge the generosity of Mr. Arthur Stringer of Mountain Lakes, New Jersey, who so kindly allowed us to use the lines from his poem "Taps at Twilight" at the head of our Gold Star Honor Roll.

We are indebted to "The Christian Science Monitor", "The Springfield Daily News", "The Berkshire Evening Eagle", and the "New York Daily News" for permission to use headlines from their publications.

P. H. S. Gold Star Honor List

"Blow softly, bugles, for our honored dead,
And tell them, where they sleep through sun and rain,
The secret of their rest can now be read
By us who know they have not died in vain."

Foreword

FOR the theme of our yearbook, we, the Class of 1946, have chosen "Education for Peace." During our years in Pittsfield High School, we have not only increased our knowledge, but have learned that this knowledge must be used for the promotion of world peace and understanding.

As we leave this school, we shall remember those ideals for which many of our classmates and friends have fought and died—and in remembering, we will strive to be worthy of their sacrifices.

In the years to come, this yearbook will serve us as a reminder and inspiration, so that ours will have been truly an "Education for Peace."

Education for Peace

In the classroom, in the shop, on the playing field, we strive to become responsible citizens of the community, the nation, and the world.

LATIN—The Romans had a word for it—"studium."

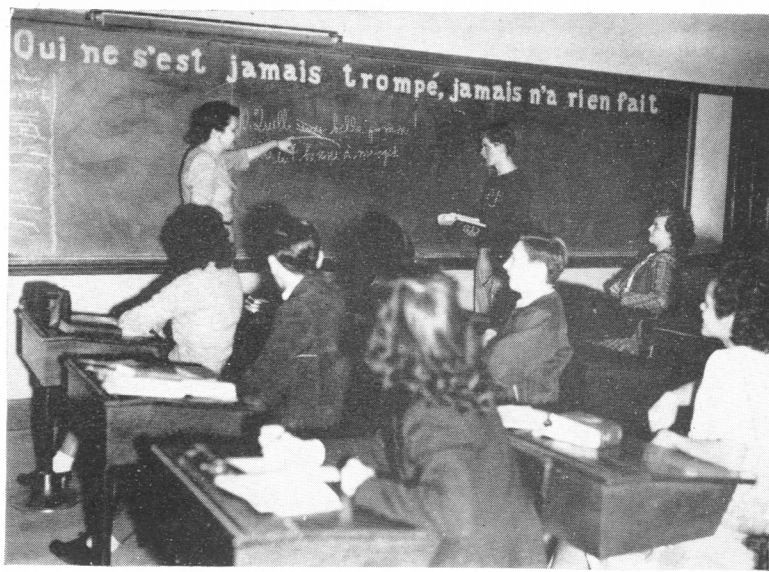

ENGLISH—Upon the fertile soil of reading are nourished breadth of thought, nobility of spirit, and sympathetic understanding of our fellow men.

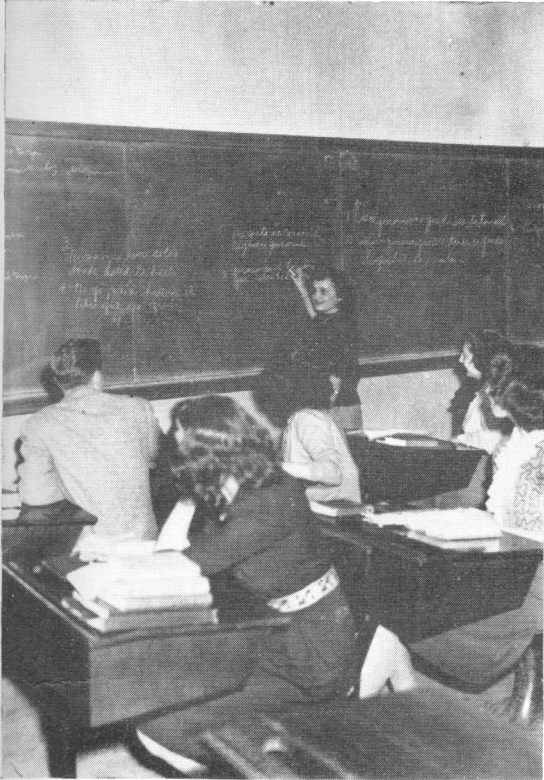

HISTORY—Here we find that our forefathers' struggle for peace was as difficult as our own.

(All pictures in this section of the Yearbook were taken by Jerrold Rubin, 1946)

FRENCH—
Vive la pac!

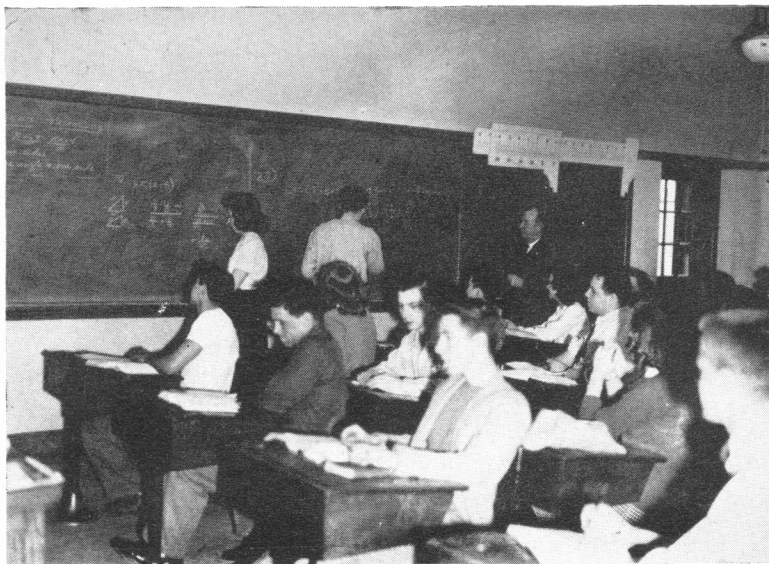

SPANISH—We learn to speak the language of our neighbors, thus enabling ourselves to understand them better.

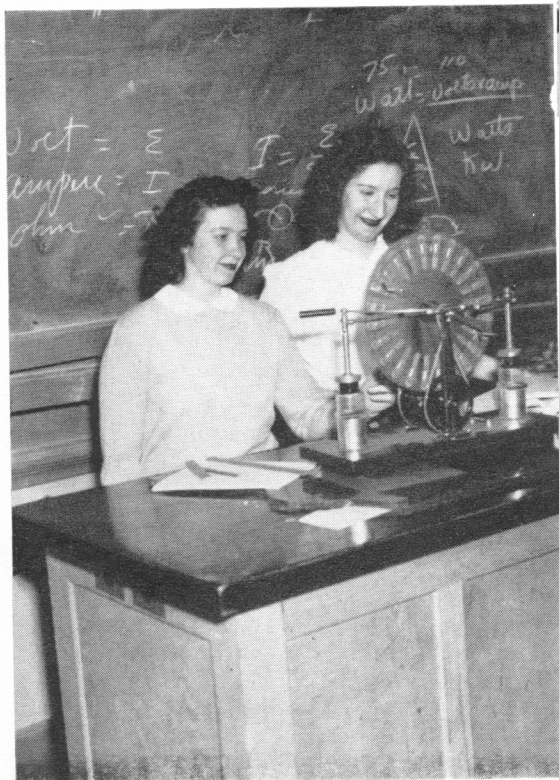

GERMAN—Listening to the enchanting lines of Goethe, we learn that great spirits transcend national boundaries.

MATH—The tangent of cooperation + the cosine of tolerance = the sine of peace.

CHEMISTRY—Out of the test tube comes everything from nitro-glycerin to NYLONS!

PHYSICS—The phenomena of our surroundings are herein explained.

TYPEWRITING—Nimble fingers prepare to tap out the records for business and industry.

MIMEOGRAPH MACHINES—Here begin our headaches—tests, tests, and more tests.

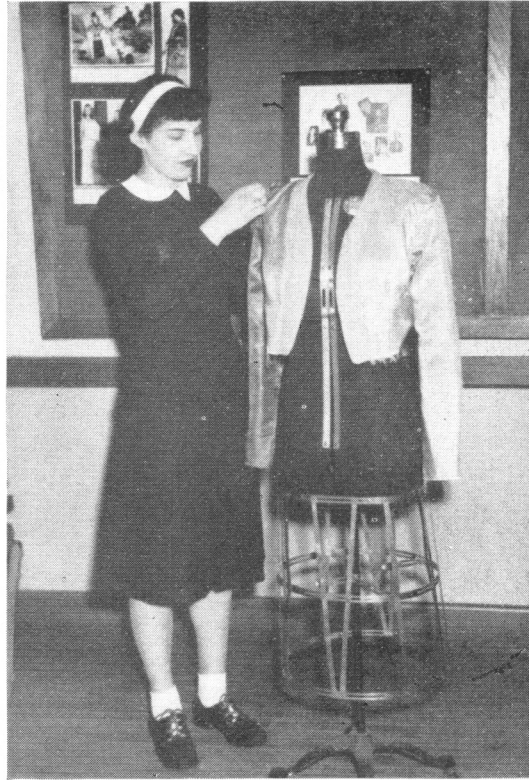

BUSINESS MACHINES—Finger-tip control, with accuracy and dependability, facilitates the activities of a busy peacetime world.

COOKING—A well-fed nation is a happy nation.

SEWING—P. H. S. endeavors to produce thrifty housewives.

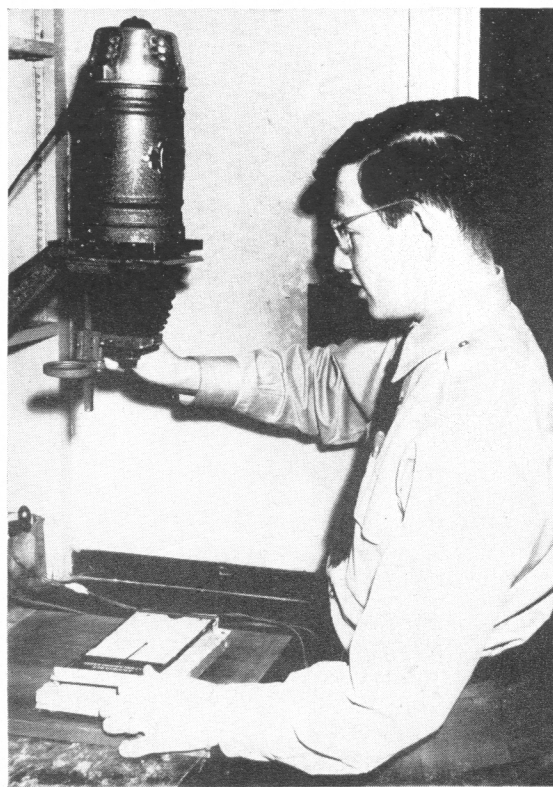

CAFETERIA—Our favorite period of the day—LUNCH TIME!

MUSIC—We turn to the world of melody for relaxation and enjoyment.

ART—Artistic creation has its rightful place in peacetime living.

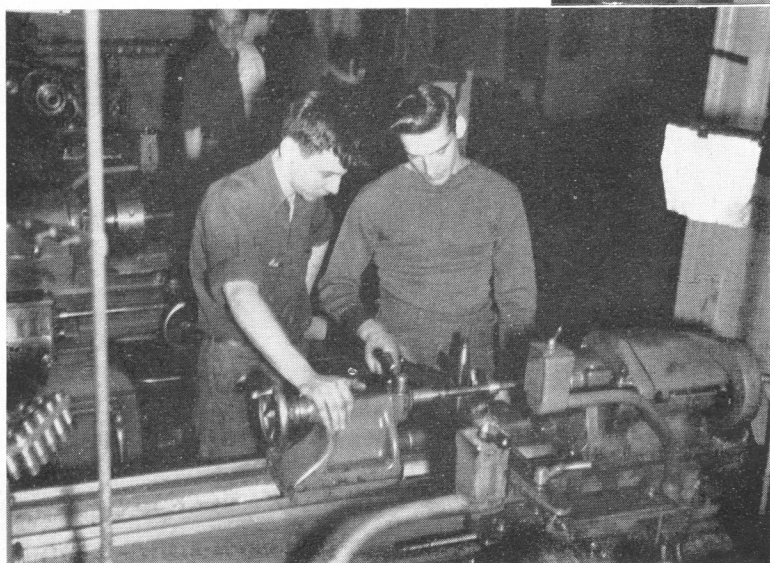

CAMERA CLUB—Leisure hours are spent in an enjoyable hobby.

MACHINE SHOP—Prosperity is in direct ratio to the productivity of the worker.

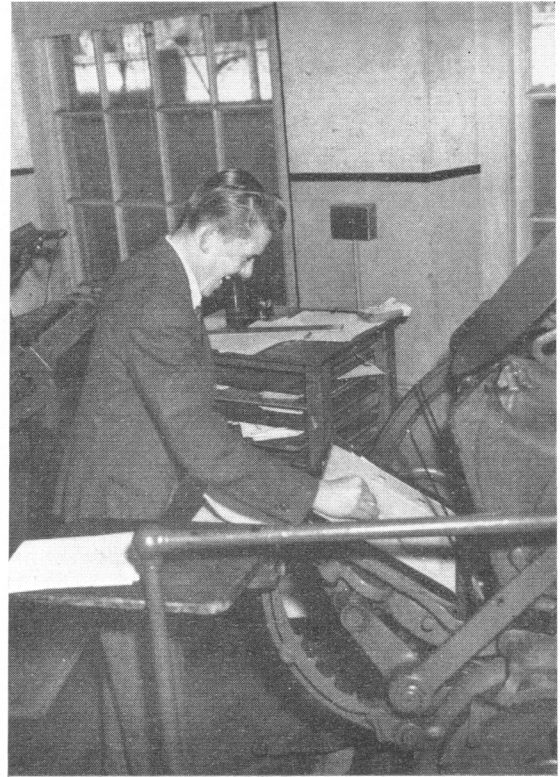

DRAFTING—Plans for a well-ordered, peaceful world are in the making.

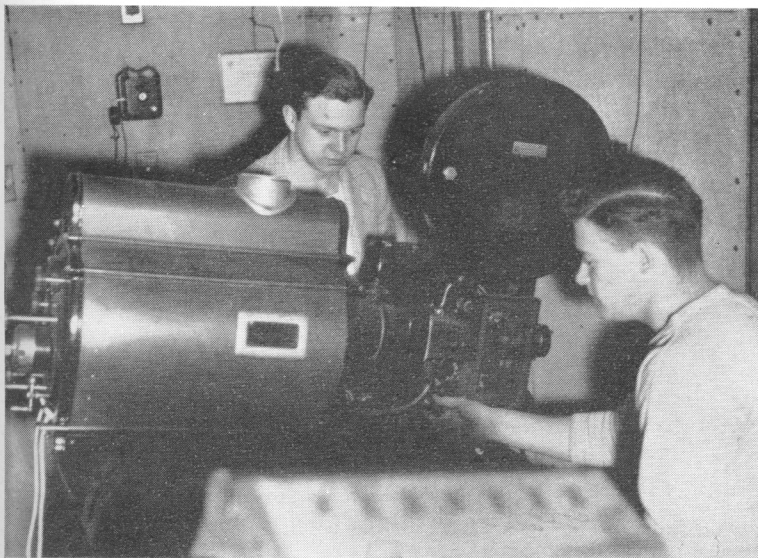

MACHINE SHOP—Here our future mechanics are trained.

PRINTING—We learn a practical occupation for peace-time living.

PRINTING—A well-informed public is essential to the preservation of democracy.

PROJECTION BOOTH—The trend of motion pictures once again turns to peacetime entertainment.

YEAR BOOK—Behind the scenes, the staff works to meet the deadline.

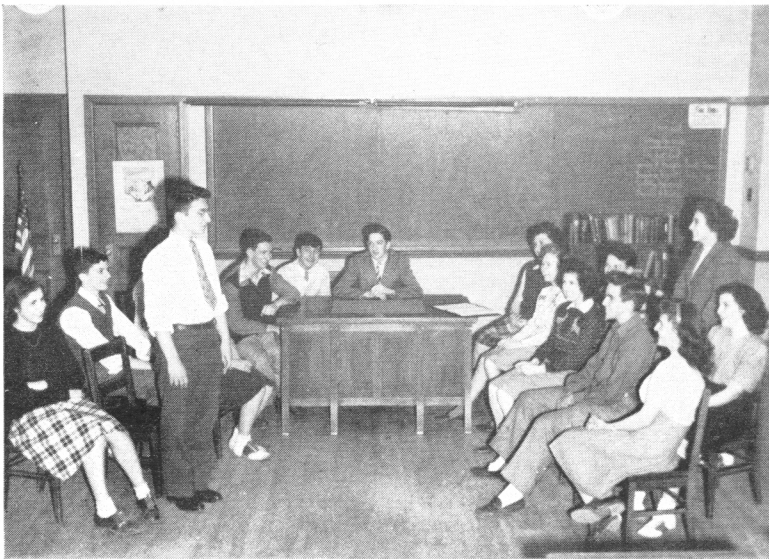

STUDENT'S PEN—Tomorrow's Pulitzers get an early start in journalism.

MOTION PICTURE CLUB—American youth engage in one of their leisure-time activities.

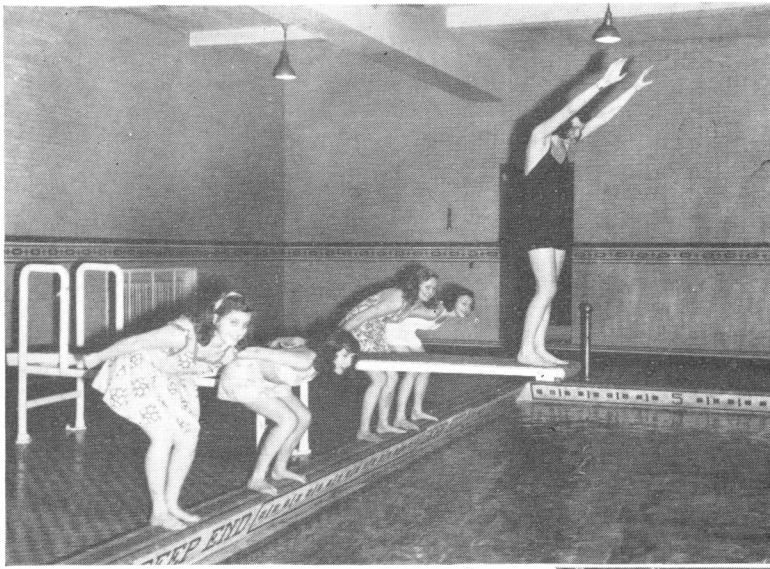

STUDENT COUNCIL—Future leaders of a democratic world.

DEBATING CLUB—Our future statesmen—exercise their right to freedom of speech.

LIBRARY—Our library provides us with books—the keys to wisdom.

SWIMMING—Here is a healthful sport for healthful living.

GIRLS' GYM—In the give and take of sports, we develop a sense of fair play.

BOYS' GYM—Strong minds and healthy bodies build good leaders for the peace-time world.

MISS HÉLÈNE MILLETT
1946 Class Adviser

Miss Helene Millett

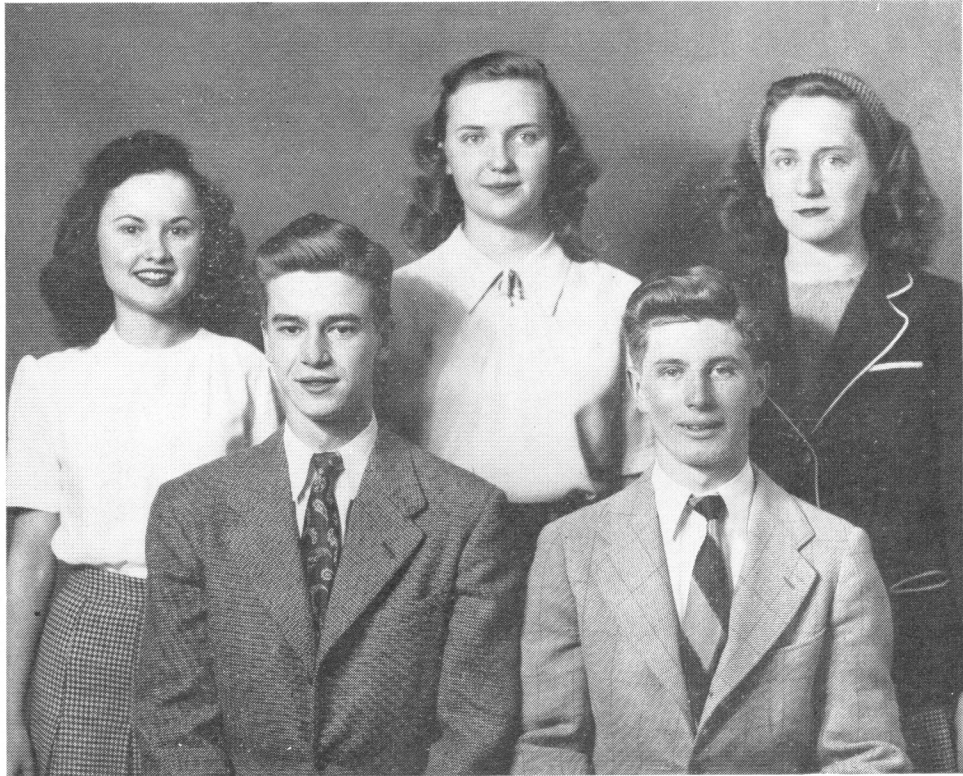

AS OUR CLASS ADVISER, Miss Millett has given unstintingly of her time and effort; but more than this, she has guided us through all our activities with a sincere and personal interest. This was our assurance of success. If, in the years to come, thoughts of our operetta, our Prom, our banquet, and our Commencement arouse in us a feeling of satisfaction and pride, we shall have Miss Millett to thank. Her patience, her untiring efforts, and her wise guidance have won for her the affection and gratitude of the Class of 1946.

In Memoriam

Peter Strauss

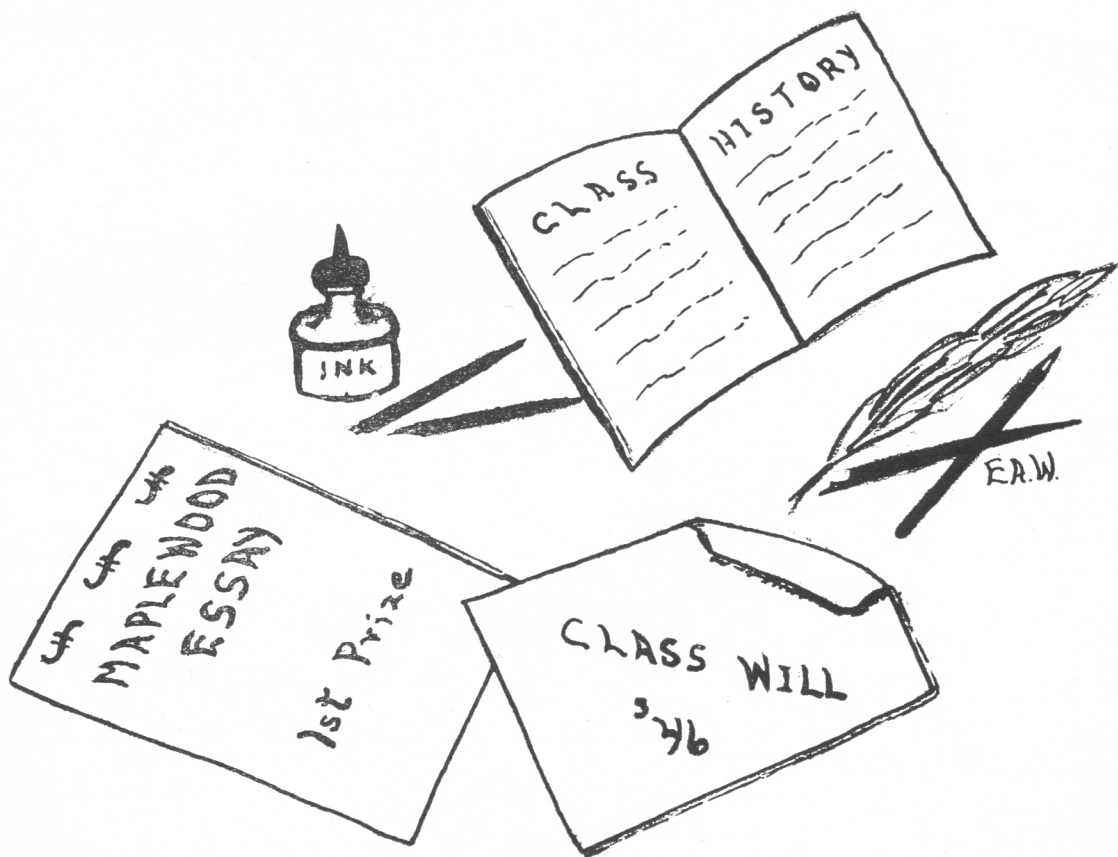

July 17, 1928—November 17, 1943

HE IS NOT DEAD

I cannot say, and I will not say
That he is dead. He is just away.
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand,
He has wandered into an unknown land
And left us dreaming how very fair
It needs must be, since he lingers there.
And you—oh, you, who the wildest yearn
For an old time step, and the glad return,
Think of him faring on, as dear
In the love of There as the love of Here.
Think of him still as the same. I say,
He is not dead—he is just away.

Alma Mater Song

Words by Esther Kierstead '38 and Friend Kierstead, Jr., '39

Tune: "All Through The Night"

Guardian elm trees cast their shadows
O'er thy ived walls;
Sons and daughters ever loyal
Throng thy honored halls.
Pittsfield High School, Pittsfield High School,
Alma Mater dear,
Help us to preserve thy honor
Through each coming year.

Great has been thy former record,
Greater will it be,
As the future generations
Sing their praise to thee.
Proud are we who through thy portals
Into life do pass;
Help us ever to be worthy,
Each and every class.

The Constitution in a Changing World

(Maplewood Prize Essay)

By Betty Secunda

WHEN our Constitution was drawn up in 1787, the political philosophy of the time was based upon the Utopian theory that if the right kind of government could be attained, it would be ideal for all time. Society was looked upon as static or unchanging. At that time the United States was almost entirely an agricultural nation, while today it is highly industrialized. Today we know that society is dynamic, and that governments must be constantly adapted to meet different conditions.

One method by which our Constitution can be made to conform to the mercurial times is by amendment. But ours is the most difficult to amend of all modern constitutions. This can be more easily realized when we consider that forty-three years elapsed between the adoption of the Fifteenth and Sixteenth Amendments, although during this entire period many amendments were proposed in every Congress. Because of this great difficulty, it has been necessary to change our Constitution by means of custom and through interpretation by the Supreme Court.

Our Constitution may be amended in four different ways, but only the first method has ever been used. This first method states that an amendment may be proposed by a two-thirds vote of each house of Congress and ratified by the state legislatures of three-fourths of the states. The first ten amendments, called the Bill of Rights, were adopted by Congress and ratified by the states by November, 1791. They provide for religious freedom; free speech; a free press; the right of peaceable assembly and petition for redress of grievances; the right of the people to keep and bear arms; no quartering of soldiers in private houses; no searches of houses without search warrants; due process of law in civil and criminal cases; the right of trial by jury; all rights not specifically granted to the national government to be retained by the states.

Eleven additional amendments have been passed in the hundred and fifty-five years that have elapsed. These forbid suits in federal courts by citizens of a state or a foreign country against a state; revise the method of electing President and Vice-President; abolish slavery, and make the Negroes citizens and voters; legalize a national income tax, the direct election of senators, and woman suffrage. The eighteenth and twenty-first amendments, respectively, legalize national prohibition, and then repeal it.

Because of the difficulty of amending our Constitution, the Supreme Court has wisely interpreted the powers of Congress so that our government could be changed to meet the demands of a rapidly growing country. With the wonderful growth of our commerce, the Supreme Court has, as the need was shown, extended the power of the federal government over interstate commerce on land and water. It has interpreted the power to establish post-offices and post-roads to include the parcels post and postal savings banks. It has prohibited interstate lotteries and the sale of impure foods. By its interpretation of the powers of Congress, it has made possible the Federal Reserve Banking System. It has upheld the power of Congress to pass laws requiring safety appliances to protect workers and passengers on interstate carriers. It has declared constitutional the right of Congress and state and city governments to fix the wages of laborers and hours of labor. It has upheld the constitutionality of employers' liability acts. By its wise interpretations of the Constitution, the Supreme Court has made possible the adaptation of our government to meet the needs of the time.

There is still another method by means of which the Constitution was made flexible for adaptation to changes in the ideas and interests of the American people. Besides vesting in Congress powers later called "specific," the Constitution gave it two general powers which would enable it to cope with problems of the coming times. Congress was authorized to raise and appropriate money for the general welfare of the United States. It also authorized Congress to make all laws necessary and proper for carrying into effect its specific powers, and all other powers vested by the Constitution in the government of the United States or any department or officer thereof.

In accordance with changing conditions, Congress has the task of passing suitable laws. It is a much disputed question whether or not the men who drew up our Constitution intended the Supreme Court to have the power to pass upon the constitutionality of these acts of Congress. Thomas Jefferson pointed out that, if the Supreme Court assumed this power, it would then become the dominating factor in the government, and that this was contrary to the theory of equal and independent departments of government. Our Constitution, a wonderfully progressive document in the days when it was written, has come to be looked upon with superstitious awe as the last word in constitutions. However, other governments, formed since the days of our Constitutional Convention, have entirely discarded the idea of a rigid constitution, superior to the legislature made up of the representatives of the people. If the American people were to draw up a new constitution, perhaps it would follow these prevailing standards by which the legislative branch is made the supreme power in the government.

There are many people who bitterly oppose as un-American any criticism of our Supreme Court or the Constitution. They forget that knowledge of the merits and defects of our institutions is power to refute the insidious propaganda of those who would destroy American institutions.

Our Constitution has its defects along with its merits. But the people of the United States live under this Constitution still. It has weathered the storms of a century and a half, and was never seriously shaken except by the Civil War, which for a brief time split the nation into two warring camps. It has proved to be elastic enough to accommodate itself to our growth from a seaboard nation of four million, to a continental people of one hundred twenty-five million, with territories touching three oceans. It has accommodated itself to the amazing development of the machine age, to open strife between the employing class and the employed, to the globe-shaking shock of a world war, to the assassin's bullet and a world-wide depression that closed all our banks and seemed to drive us into absolute bankruptcy and anarchy. It has kept us steady while dynasties toppled and fell, while autocrats flourished and soviets developed, and in an hour when dictators stalked formidably over much of the earth. Countries like England and France accommodate themselves to changing conditions by having no constitution except the combined statutes of their legislatures: an unwritten constitution, as it is called. We, with the less adaptable written Constitution, have stayed as steady, or steadier, and will probably continue to do so, in the Atomic Age to come.

Interpretation of the Constitution

(American Legion Prize Essay)

By Robert Heidel

THE men who chose the words of the Constitution in 1787 were frugal indeed with language. There are so few statements of policy written into the document, so few specific expressions, that men have struggled conscientiously for over a hundred and fifty years to interpret its meaning correctly. Some of its provisions, it is true, are very definite, and being self-explanatory, permit no differences of opinion; but other clauses of the Constitution, especially those dealing with the powers of government and restraints in behalf of civil liberties for persons and citizens, are general in nature and are open to varied interpretations.

According to the Constitution, the judicial power of the Supreme Court shall extend to all cases in law and equity arising under this document. This means that it is the duty of the Court to settle those clauses which may have varied meanings, in order to settle the cases which may arise under them. As to this duty of deciding the meanings of certain clauses, Charles Evans Hughes once observed, "We are under a Constitution, but the Constitution is what the judges say it is." Felix Frankfurter put it even more concisely by stating, "The Supreme Court is the Constitution." The reason that the Constitution is still adequate to the nation's need today is chiefly that the Supreme Court has treated it, not as the paralyzing hand of the dead, but as a body of living principles. It has kept the Constitution modern by modernizing its methods of Constitutional interpretation during the last forty years as a result of a philosophy which was championed by Holmes and Brandeis in their judicial decisions.

In order to understand better what this modern method of interpretation is, it is well to know something of the older way. This old method was dogmatic and mechanical. The accepted theory was that the courts never "make" law, but merely apply universal and unchangeable principles of law which presumably were sufficient to decide any case. This is what a German writer once said was "the theory of the judicial slot machine." The Court was like a machine. All one had to do was to put the facts of a case in a slot on top and draw out the correct decision below. This was the case because the justices used the same guides for almost all of their interpretation. These old methods are still used in many cases even though newer ideas are employed.

What are some of the guides the Supreme Court uses in this old method of interpretation? One help that the Court uses is Webster's Dictionary, but the enlightenment to be attained by using that book is limited, so the Court uses more important ways which are sanctioned by high authority and long usage.

One of the controlling doctrines of interpretation recommended by custom is the theory that the intention of those who made the Constitution should govern. No other assumption seems more rational and inevitable. As Chief Justice Marshall said, "The people have an original right to establish, for their future government, such principles as, in their opinion, shall most conduce to their own happiness." This, he says, is the basis on which the whole American government has been created. The under-lying theory of his argument is that it is the original and supreme will of the people which is to be discovered and given effect in interpreting the Constitution.

In order to find what the will of the American people was, the intentions of the draftsmen of the Constitution, of the members of the state conventions which ratified it, and of the voters who elected the delegates to the conventions must be found. However, in their efforts to find the intentions of the makers of the Constitution, the judges of the Supreme Court have generally limited their inquiries to the aims of the men who drafted it in Philadelphia. But how are the justices to find the intentions of these men? No records were kept of the debates in the convention, and our information as to what was said is limited to notes taken by James Madison. On none of the clauses did all the members speak; on few, if any, did a majority speak. Therefore, in many cases, it is impossible to discover the intention of the Constitutional Convention. Besides, after the Convention, some of its members differed on various parts. Some people, however, still talk about the intentions of the framers by citing letters or speeches of theirs. Undoubtedly some light is thrown on the meaning of the Constitution by studying these writings and speeches, but the intentions of all the framers on points which can have more than one meaning often cannot be discovered.

As to the will of all the men who ratified the Constitution, no one can ever tell. Of these hundreds of men only the speeches of some of them are to be found, and in these the questionable topics are never fully agreed upon.

When the intentions of the people are sought, the quest is found to be hopeless. Of the citizens who elected delegates to ratifying conventions, very few had even read the Constitution.

The justices also followed precedents which in constitutional cases rob the Constitution of its adaptability to changing conditions. Judges of the old school gave precedent an almost religious devotion. However, an earlier decision in the same kind of case should not be binding if the social and economic environment has changed. The Court can depart without apology now from a rule based on a condition which no longer exists. These so-called newer methods have always been in use by others than the Supreme Court, but only now are they being used there extensively.

It is the duty of the Congress, also, to interpret the Constitution. With reference to many matters which do not get into cases in federal courts, Congress makes its own explanations of the Constitution and establishes precedents of great weight. Thousands of government acts that have never been brought before the courts present interpretations of the Constitution.

The President also, by his decrees, orders, and acts gives meaning to the Constitution. The Presidents have all made precedents for which the Constitution does not make provision; for example, the appointing of a Cabinet or the sending of armed forces out of the country. These actions are an important interpretation of the President's powers, and it is not likely that they will be challenged by the Supreme Court.

Even political parties interpret the Constitution by the majority party's proposing of the Speaker of the House and by its setting up Congressional committees which are dominated by the majority party. Nothing is even mentioned of committees in the Constitution.

When men now seek to discover what can or cannot be done under the Constitution, they do not confine their studies to the words and purposes of the men who made and ratified it, to history, to the Bible, or to preceding judicial decisions. Among the mental processes useful in interpreting the Constitution the most commonly used, especially in the Supreme Court, is "logical reasoning." However, this is only one way of discovering the truth. Two men, using it, might still come to two different conclusions. Some justices refer to the "spirit" of the Constitution, but neither is this always conclusive. These two methods are the reasons why there is so much dissension among the present justices of the Supreme Court. With these new ways the judges show much more independence and courage then they formerly did. The Supreme Court has been able to modernize the Constitution because it has modernized its ways of making decisions and its ways of interpreting the Constitution. This change in method permits the Supreme Court to adjust the basic principles of our constitutional system to the shifting demands of our national life.

The framers of the Constitution certainly meant that Constitution to be permanent, and not to be superseded by a new instrument framed to meet new circumstances. The provision for amendments supports this thought. Neither did they imagine that it was to be so strictly interpreted that amendments and revisions would be needed to keep the government running smoothly. The Constitution is to endure for ages and is to be regarded as adaptable to the various crises of human affairs, for adaptability is a necessary requirement of permanence. Only by the proper methods of interpretation can the Supreme Court insure the long life of our Constitution.

Last Will and Testament of the Class of 1946

WE, the members of the Class of 1946, being of sane (???) mind and endowed with that superior intelligence possessed by all Seniors, leave to those poor and simple souls basking in the light of our glories, the realization that Pittsfield High School can never be the same without us.

It being the custom for classes to bequeath at Commencement time all their worldly goods, and inasmuch as our present fortunes consist of a battered pillow for taking naps in French class, three or four bad jokes, a pair of roller skates left over from the bus strike, and one very worn Sinatra record, we shall confine ourselves to the purely imaginary, hoping this will bring satisfaction to all concerned.

To the members of the faculty—those patient and hardworking creatures who have given up so much (homework)—we bequeath the following:

To:—

Mr. Strout—a loud-speaker system that actually works.

Miss Parker—a rubber name stamp for signing tardy slips.

Mr. Goodwin—a pair of Atler's elevator shoes.

Miss Pfeiffer—some sophomore geniuses who will write poetry, short stories, AND essays for the Student's Pen.

Miss Millett—a nice long vacation which she'll certainly need after graduation.

Mr. Conroy—patience and fortitude in guiding his Juniors.

Miss Kaliher—double pay for teaching pupils like John Goewey.

Mr. C. McMahon—a pair of glasses for use in umpiring baseball games.

Mr. Davison—our prayers that he won't blow the school up—till we get out.

Miss Daley—wooden heels, so she can't surprise future classes into numerals.

Mr. Lynch—a hardworking crew of sophomores to finish his garage.

Miss Casey—a French class that never has heard of chewing gum.

Mr. Joyce—sweet dreams of that "Viennese baritone."

Miss McCormick—hypnotism, for controlling her more wayward students.

Miss Power—a slightly less patriotic sixth period study hall.

Mr. Gorman—Jose Iturbi to accompany the Girls' Glee Club.

Miss Hodges—some boys for her Motion Picture Club.

Coach Carmody—a shoe horn to aid in squeezing 4,000 people into a building which seats only 2,000.

Coach Stewart—a carton of chewing gum for basketball games.

Miss Rhoades—a mid-morning lunch period (for her).

Mr. Innis—a job as a UN interpreter.

Miss Hutchinson—a library period without a single Senior trying to do homework.
Mr. Hennessey—a new meter stick to “help” students learn.
Miss Conlon—a camera for deciding whether or not pupils are late.
Mr. Geary—a “brains machine” such as M. I. T. has.
Miss A. Murphy—a firehose with which to keep students at lunch away from her fourth period study hall.
Mr. McKenna—the complete annihilation of Walter Winchell.
Miss Morse—a lariat to stop pupils from running in the halls.
Mr. Maloney—an automatic detector to find hidden cigarettes.
The members of the incoming Senior class—our well-worn size elevens, so that the new Seniors will have no difficulty following in our footsteps.
The Sophomores—well, would anything really help?
All the Faculty—our thanks for the guidance, knowledge, and fun they have given us these past three years.

In testimony whereof we, the Class of 1946, have hereafter set our seal and signature on this the seventh day of June in the year of Our Lord one thousand nine hundred and forty-six in the presence of the following witnesses:

Patience

Class History

Sophomore Year

- September 8, 1943—Clutching our lunch bags and pencils to our hearts, we throng the endless halls of P. H. S. to begin our sophomore year.
- September 16—One of our gallant band—"How do I get to the fourth floor, please?"
- September 18—Having become fairly well acquainted with the floor plan of P. H. S., we concentrate our efforts on studying Caesar, geometrical theorems, and on remaining outwardly calm when one of the six bells rings during fourth period.
- September 25—Our first football game! P. H. S. loses to Greenfield 3-12. "Things are tough all over."
- September 29—Books and Authors Bond Rally at P. H. S. A dollar in war stamps for the autograph of Fannie Hurst or Van Wyck Brooks.
- October 12—In 1492 Columbus sailed the ocean blue!—a holiday and no homework either!
- October 17—Salvage Sunday at Pittsfield. Our boys pitch in and collect two thousand dollars' worth of scrap iron and rubber.
- October 22—Gum rationing sets in.
- October 29—City installs portable ozonated drinking water fountains at P. H. S. because of the water situation.
- November 6-13—Open House—Parents welcome to visit school if they wish. Students have no choice.
- November 8—Rally held at P. H. S. for St. Joe game. "Come on Purple, Come on White!"
- November 11—Flash! P. H. S. trounces St. Joe 12-6. Sophomore girls swoon at sight of Rod Brown.
- November 30—Back to school after sleeping off the turkey.
- December 7—Pearl Harbor Day. Minute Man Flag proudly flies over P. H. S. signifying over 90% sales of war bonds and stamps.
- December 12—Pittsfield alerted in air raid drill. Paper bombs shower the city.
- December 15—Sophomore girls form a Frank Sinatra Club. Is there a stretcher handy?
- December 17—Santa Claus is coming to town with a Yo-yo for Mr. Herrick.
- December 21—Drooperman spends the day rescuing students from drowning in the puddles around the drinking fountains.
- December 25—Merry Christmas, everybody!
- January 4, 1944—We hear Miss Kaliher received a chisel for Christmas to hammer some knowledge into her pupils' heads. Mr. McMahon received the book "Love at First Flight". Cornelius Jr. leads him a merry chase, we hear.
- January 14—P. H. S. wins again, this time in basketball. St. Joe 20—P. H. S. 22.
- January 16—Pittsfield High buys three Fairchild "Cornell" PT-19 Trainers by purchasing forty-five thousand dollars' worth of war bonds and stamps.
- January 22—Today it snowed.
- January 25—This was a memorable day in the lives of Miss Millett's pupils—she forgot to assign homework.
- January 27—Half of P. H. S. is walking around on crutches—Marvelous skiing weather!
- February 17—Senior Class presents "The Gondoliers". Starring such prominent sophomores as Evelyn Seagrave, Don Read, and Chris Barrecca, it was a great success. Congratulations!

February 22—Contrary to popular opinion, Mr. Gorman did not write “Mairzy Doats”.

March 15—Being a student rather than a teacher proves to be more profitable as bewildered teachers consult us about their Income Tax returns.

March 23—We experience the first of the “student assemblies” and find much talent in P. H. S.

April 12—We wade to school through puddles and enviously watch the Seniors speed by in their high-powered motor boats.

April 19—Paul Revere may have ridden, but unfortunately this feat wasn’t important enough to warrant a holiday.

May 12—“Drooperman” solves the transportation problem to the Junior Prom with a bicycle built for two.

May 15—We congratulate the Juniors for a wonderful night’s entertainment and at the same time smother a yawn.

June 6—The Allies invade the Normandy beachhead. We silently pray for success.

June 22—We say goodbye to geometry departmentals and our carefree sophomore days.

Junior Year

September 18, 1944—Jaunty Juniors now are we. School begins two weeks late, because of the polio epidemic.

September 20—Were we like THAT??? when we were sophomores? You bet we were!

September 25—Happy Birthday to “The Pen” on its fiftieth year of publication.

October 7—We overwhelm Dalton with a score of 33-0.

October 31—We scorn the ghosts and protect the sophomores from the goblins.

November 7—Wish the President could be elected every day.

November 11—We bow down in defeat—St. Joe 7, P. H. S. 6.

December 20—The final strains of Adeste Fideles begin the holiday season. We celebrate in the midst of a great war the birth of the Prince of Peace.

January 3, 1945—We do our best to keep our New Year’s resolutions, but that snooze in study hall is too tempting.

January 15—Library is swamped with requests for “Syrian Yankee” after its author, Salom Rizk, has greatly impressed us with a fine lecture.

January 19—Rumor has it that the Class of ’46 is doing itself proud in the operetta “Ruddigore”.

February 1 and 2—Class of ’46 almost stole the show.

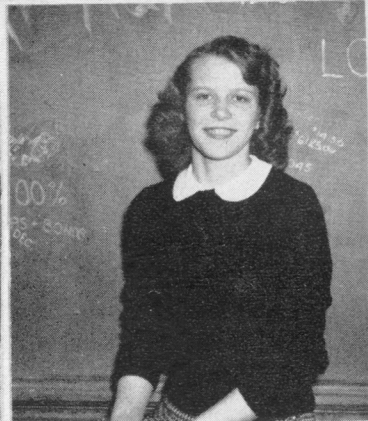

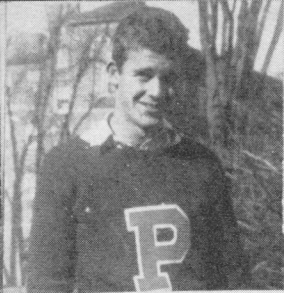

February 14—Dan Cupid rides again, or could it be that our Junior boys have tired of the sophomore girls so soon?

February 20—Fewer blisters, more smiles are the results of the work of the new snow plow constructed by the Vocational students.

March 5—We are beginning to see completion of those city reports on which we’ve been diligently working.

March 12—We welcome back to the P. H. S. faculty, several World War II veterans and begin to feel the influence of Army methods,—or did Mr. Lynch always use a meter stick?

April 11—Disappearing rings, sawed off heads, and Mr. Raymond Cox’s assistant. What a performance, or so the boys thought.

- April 12—Franklin Delano Roosevelt, our great President, is dead. We bow our heads in prayer.
- April 19—Five members of our class to serve on the newly revived Student Council. We are reminded that the teachers are still to have the last word.
- May 9—Germany surrenders. Our hearts are light; we are grateful as we celebrate V-E Day.
- May 18—Grand Opera is well received at the annual Choral Concert.
- May 25—We whirl to the tune of “Candy” and enjoy a night long to be remembered.
- June 1—All mathematics classes look forward to a weekend of study in preparation for departmentals.
- June 6—D Day for us. It’s all over now. Math books are closed until next September.
- June 15—We count the days until we leave the school to return next September as seniors.
- June 21—There are sad faces as we hand in our last piece of homework.
- June 22—“As juniors we came, as seniors we leave.”
- June 25—Casualty list put at thirty-three injured in the rush to leave dear ole P. H. S. for summer vacation.

Senior Year

- September 5, 1945—Seniors at last!! Great pleasure of being “on top” helps us through our first day.
- September 13—Joy leaves us as seven-period days end and we settle down to “the grind”.
- September 26—Student Council elected. We, as Seniors, institute this first student government plan.
- October 11—Mr. Strout and Miss Parker are host and hostess at a luncheon for the Student Council. (Three senior members of the Council didn’t eat for two days in anticipation of this event!)
- October 17—House of Representatives elected to Student Government.
- October 31—We attend an impressive assembly, held to install the Student Council.
- November 9—We hold a rally to spur our team on to victory over St. Joseph’s.
- November 12—St. Joseph’s crushed 31 to 0. Are we good! Wow!
- November 28—We explain to the sophomores how Ray Cox, the magician, makes things disappear at his second performance at P. H. S.
- December 5—Christmas tree all bright and gay is being set up in lobby.
- December 11—Vacation time approaches. We see presents for teachers under the tree.
- December 17—Decrease in broken fingers as the cafeteria committee installs a separate booth for milk buying.
- December 19—We prepare for the first postwar Christmas.
- December 21—We hear a Christmas program at assembly. We wish each other a “Merry Christmas and a New Year making the most of our new peace”.
- January 1, 1946—The New Year.
- January 2—School again. Ah, for the high white hills, the sparkling ponds, the snow-packed—oh, for another vacation!
- January 5—Have to get used to the Sophs and Juniors all over again after a vacation. ‘Specially those Sophs.
- January 15—We decide on blue for our caps and gowns. Is it that the color has significance?

January 18—We play Drury. We lose.

February 1—Only two weeks minus a day till “Patience”. What excitement! What finger nail biting!—but, be patient.

February 12—Lincoln may have freed the slaves, but he rather neglected some. We’re still here.

February 14—The first night of “Patience”. It’s colossal!—magnificent!—It’s even rather good.

February 15—And tonight is even more so, if possible. Congratulations and thanks to Mr. Gorman and a swell cast.

February 18—Our rings are here. Wheee! At last we’re Seniors.

February 22—What Lincoln overlooked, Washington accomplished. Today—liberation!

February 26—We play Drury. We win. Oh, boy!

March 1—In like a lamb.

March 5—Benefit game with Drury. We lose 42 to 33.

March 6—Assembly. We now know how to climb mountains—and get killed doing it.

March 8—We play Drury. We win. This could become monotonous.

March 20—The spring is sprung,
 The grass is riz
 I wonder where the flowers is?

March 22—We congratulate Mr. Strout as he completes his twenty-fifth year as principal of P. H. S.

March 29—Orchestra Concert. Mr. Gorman has done it again.

April 1—The usual jokes—the usual fools—and snow, snow, snow!

April 18—Pardon me, I won’t sit down. Report cards, you know. But there is always a silver lining—vacation! Oh, boy!

April 29—Back to school. Those sophomores are hard to get used to.

May 1—Glorious! Wonderful! Sunshine!

May 10—Only two weeks till the Prom.

May 17—It’s almost here. Oh, the suspense!

May 24—What a night! What a date! What music! Oh, what a Prom! Thanks, Juniors, for a swell dance.

May 27—Flash—Mr. Strout has just ordered the dome raised to the heavens to accommodate the heads still floating in the clouds.

May 29—Fewer classes. How heavenly.

June 1—This is Saturday, but still it’s the first day of the month, so it merits mention, huh?

June 7—Band concert tonight.

June 11—Today is Class Day. This is O.K. plus, plus. Aren’t we sensational in our caps and gowns!

June 12—Oh, for another notch in my belt—on the far end. What a banquet!

June 16—Well, this is it—Graduation Day. So long, dear old P. H. S., and thanks to you and the faculty for—yes—three perfect years. Good luck, everyone!

“Patience”

THE CLASS OF '46 presented on the nights of February 14 and 15, 1946, the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta “Patience.”

“Patience” is the eighth and last in a series of Gilbert and Sullivan comic operas which have been presented annually under the sponsorship of the senior classes. Next year “Pinafore”, the first in the series, will be given again.

“Patience” is probably the most difficult of the Gilbert and Sullivan’s operettas to produce. It is so primarily because it is a satire on Oscar Wilde and his troupe of aesthetic poets, who reigned in the latter part of the nineteenth century, and it is comparatively difficult to put across its humor since a modern audience, in general, is not fully acquainted with this period.

A great deal of the credit for the success of the 1946 performance belongs to Mr. F. Carl Gorman, who was the musical director, stage director, conductor, and producer. Credit also belongs in varying degrees, to the members of the cast, chorus, and orchestra.

The members of the cast who are in the senior class are Evelyn Seagrave, Mildred Monteleone, Donald Davis, Daniel Indjian, and Christopher Barreca. The three capable dancers, also in the Class of '46, were Doris Cella, Marion Jasik and Sophie Buksa.

The co-chairmen, who appointed the chairmen of the various committees, were Anita Eberwein and William Gruning. Not enough can be said in praise of them and their committees.

Betty Secunda was concert mistress of the orchestra, while Bruce Williams was the accompanist.

Miss Helen McNaughton assisted with the dancing, Mr. Geary with the tickets, and Miss Kaliher with the ushers.

Miss Enright, Miss Manvel, Miss McNaughton, Miss Millet, Mr. Joyce, and Mr. Conroy all became make-up artists for the event.

Miss Millet, the class adviser, worked unceasingly keeping the various committees up to date, but she appeared satisfied at the eventual successful conclusion.

All participants have expressed the thought that they wish it were possible to put “Patience” on again.

The Junior Prom

THE Class of 1946 held its Junior Prom on the twenty-fifth of May, 1945 in the P. H. S. gym.

The night was warm and balmy and everyone was in gay spirits. The theme of the Prom was the well known tune, "Candy", and the gym was appropriately decorated with candy striped crepe paper of red and white, artistically draped over the band stand to represent bright candy canes. The wheels of the bandstand were made of gay life-savers. Even the dance programs were striped with the striking red and white.

The stately receiving line added dignity to the affair. Music was furnished by Sammy Vincent's orchestra and William Adams, general chairman, did a marvelous job under the able supervision of Miss Helene Millet. The whole affair was very successful and the memory of a good time will remain in our hearts.

Class Banquet

THE co-chairmen of the class banquet to be held on June twelfth at the Wendell Sheraton Hotel are Jean Fuhlbrigge and Charles Hunt. The music for the banquet will be provided by Harry Noring, who was secured by Francis Cronin, the music chairman for the occasion.

As "The Dome" goes to press elaborate plans are being made to make this banquet the outstanding event in our school career.

Class Day

"Class Day" this year is in the form of a combined tribute to Mr. Strout for his twenty-five years of service to the public school system of Pittsfield, and to the ex-service-men who have returned to our ranks from the fighting fronts of the world, after the successful completion of the war. Joseph Loehr has been elected chairman of "Class Day" and he is being assisted by Miss Katherine McCormick of the English Department.

MR. JOHN T. CARMODY
Supervisor of Physical Education and Football Coach

JOHN CARMODY

Coach John Carmody, the likable mentor, first came to Pittsfield High School in 1921, after having served overseas in World War I with the 3rd and 16th Cavalry Units. While in the Army, he worked his way up through the ranks to a second lieutenantancy.

When Mr. Carmody first came to P. H. S., he was made coach of major sports and immediately turned out smooth-functioning athletic combinations in football, hockey, and track. Many of these teams won championships.

But more important than these successes, has been his fine influence on the many boys who have been under his tutelage. The Coach has a host of friends among his present and former athletes who wish him well.

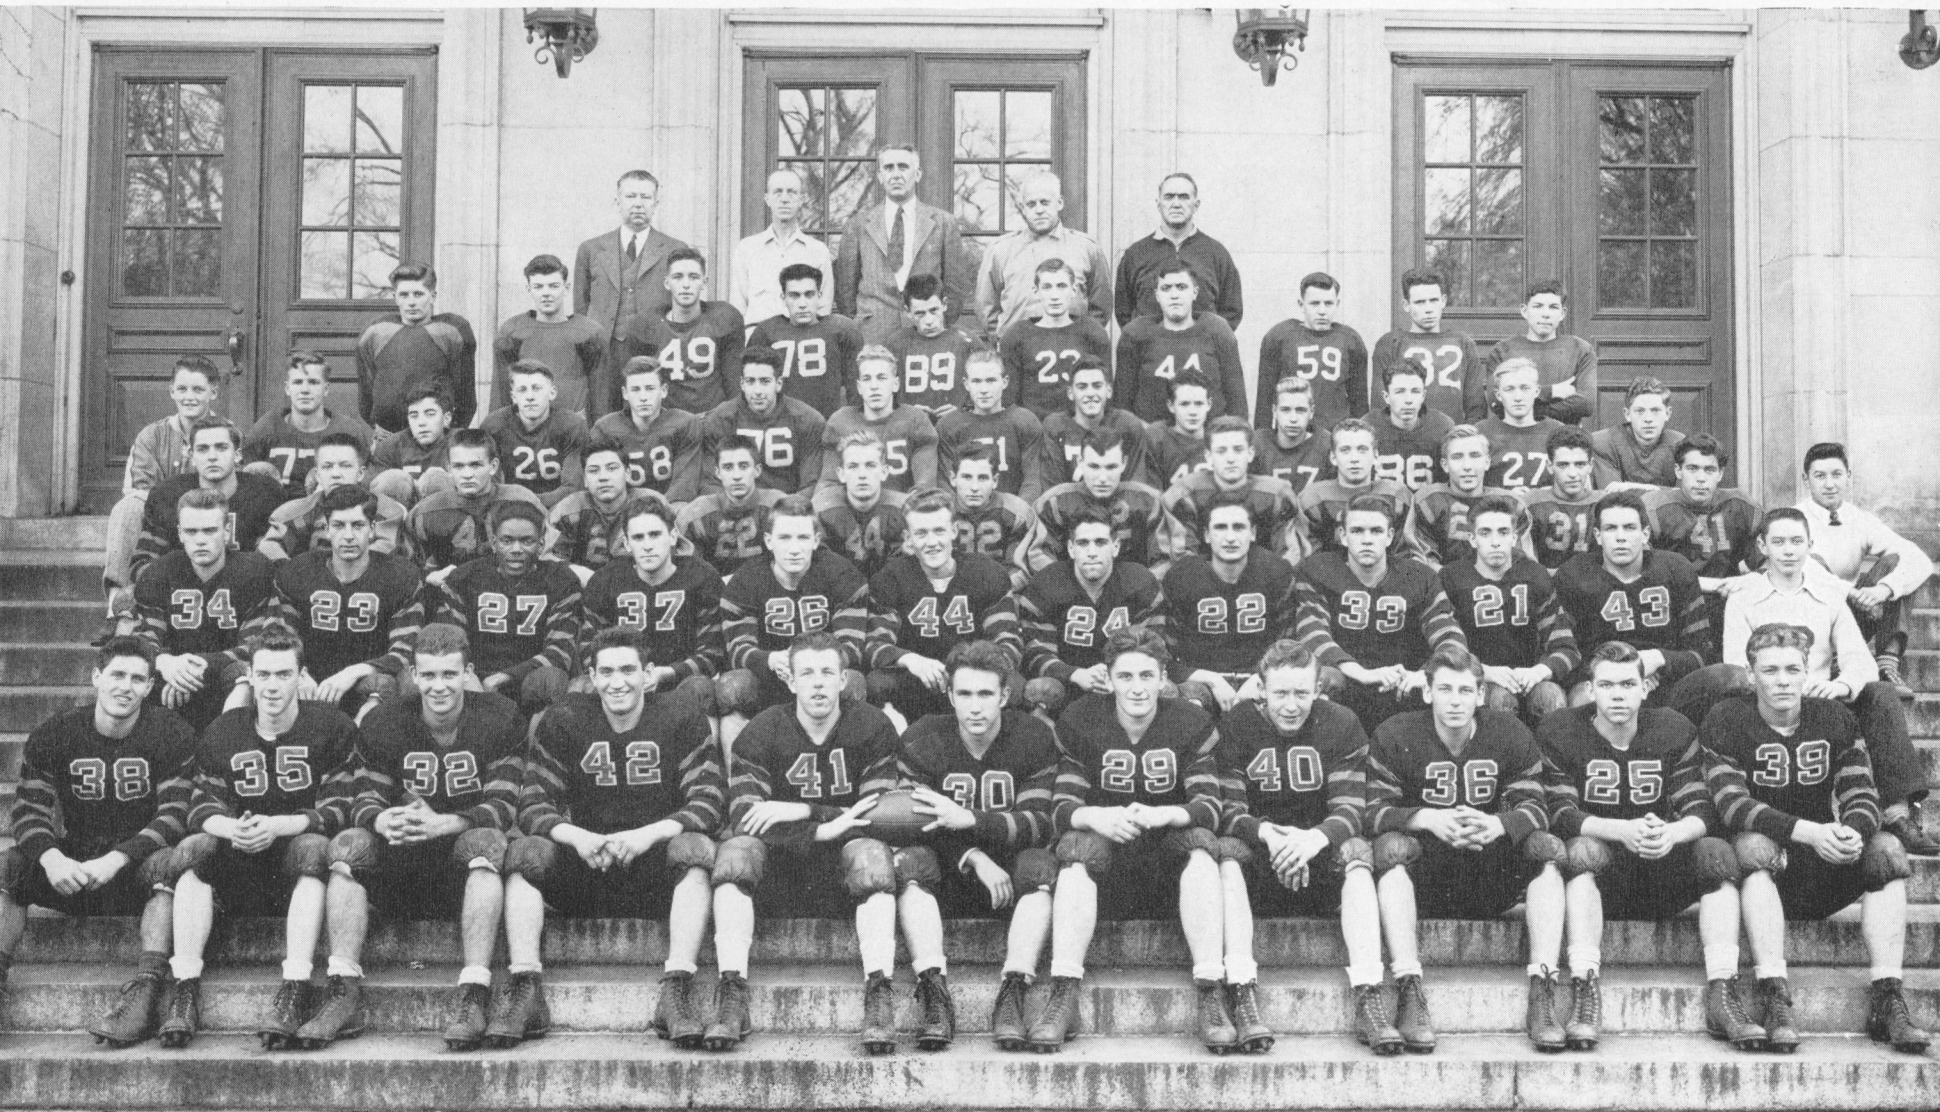

AL BIANCHI

This versatile senior is Al Bianchi, co-captain of the football team and All-Berkshire tackle for two years. He is a member of the baseball and basketball teams, and was a high scorer on the bowling team. He is also a member of the Student Council.

NORM CARMEL

Our other co-captain is Norm Carmel, a hard-running back, who was sidelined by injuries most of this year after starring in his junior year. Norm is also a member of the baseball team, and in his spare time he goes hunting and fishing.

FOOTBALL TEAM

First Row—Dicenzo, Flynn, Gutmann, Marra, Co-Capts. Bianchi and Carmel, Everhart, Van Loon, Kasuba, Scutt, R. Connor.

Second Row—Wood, Henriques, Williams, Trasatti, Prendergast, Lake, Vergati, Barreca, Paris, Troy, Archambeault, Bouchane (Mgr.)

Third Row—Carnevale, Ostaski, Mlynarczyk, Petrillo, Barba, M. Flynn, Arpante, E. Wheeler, King, Kearns, Dubacher, Romasco, Villanova, Civello.

Fourth Row—Shields (Mgr.), Hayford, Phillips, Heidel, K. Wheeler, Ranti, Hovey, Sweeney, La Sorsa, Carmody, Welsh, Marr, D. Heidel, Holly.

Fifth Row—Bolster, Hayes, Andrews, Mancari, Condron, Mierzejewski, Leonard, Smith, Cronin, B. Connor.

Sixth Row—Mr. Hennessey, Coaches Stewart, Leahy, Herrick, Carmody.

Football Review

THOUGH not too successful in its 1945 grid schedule, having two victories and five defeats, Pittsfield High came through to wind up its season with a smashing win over its traditional rival, St. Joe. The thirty-one points Pittsfield rolled up in that Armistice Day contest tied the old 1927 record for the number of points scored in this annual battle for the city football title.

At the outset of the season Pittsfield got tough breaks in the loss of two valuable players through injuries. Bill Johnson, first string halfback, received a fractured leg in the opening game with Greenfield, while Ed Altobelli suffered a broken leg playing guard against Springfield Tech in the second game. In the Pittsfield-Adams game, our North-Berkshire rival, well-known and respected for its offensive power, was limited to only one score, due to the brilliant defensive playing of Pittsfield.

Backs Don Kasuba and Bill Paris were injured in the first quarter of the Holyoke game, but that didn't stop the Purple eleven. With Dom Dicenzo doing a fine job of ground gaining, Pittsfield really moved, and before the game ended, Ben Carnevale had crashed through for Pittsfield's first touchdown and first win of the season.

Though unsuccessful as far as points and victories go, some fine material for future teams was uncovered. Sophomore backs like Dom Dicenzo, Joe Ditello, and Don Troy ran and passed well. Troy on several occasions broke away for long runs only to have them called back.

Two of the Pittsfield High team were elected to the Eagle's All-Berkshire team. Co-captain Al Bianchi, who played tackle, made his second year as All-Berkshire tackle and Don Troy was awarded a backfield post.

The complete scores for the 1945 season:

Pittsfield	0	Greenfield	25
Pittsfield	0	Springfield Tech	13
Pittsfield	7	Holyoke	0
Pittsfield	0	Adams	6
Pittsfield	0	Drury	7
Pittsfield	0	Cathedral	7

PITTSFIELD-ST. JOE GAME
NOVEMBER 12, 1945

COACH "CHUCK" STEWART

Coach Charles E. Stewart has guided the destiny of P. H. S. athletic teams for seventeen years, coming here in 1929 to coach in major sports. Basketball and baseball are his special fields, and under his tutelage Pittsfield High teams have distinguished themselves valiantly and successfully, winning several championships and always performing capably.

In his own playing days, Coach Stewart was outstanding in football and basketball at Colgate University, from which he was graduated in 1916 with a B.S. degree. An alumnus of P. H. S., where he was a star quarterback, he later studied at Williston Academy and Cornell before entering Colgate.

Three years of football were in store for him after college. He played for two years with one of the greatest professional teams of all time, the Canton "Bulldogs" where he had among his teammates Jim Thorpe, believed to have been the greatest of American athletes. The next football season saw him in the army, playing for Camp Greenleaf, Georgia, team under the famed Jock Sutherland.

During his years at P. H. S., Coach Stewart has proved himself invaluable in molding character in the boys and turning out many top-notch athletes.

BENEFIT GAME—P. H. S. vs. DRURY, MARCH 5, 1946

Basketball

THIS past winter a good, hard-working P. H. S. basketball team, led by Captain Dick Farnham, finished its season in third place in the Northern Berkshire League with a 9 and 5 record. Considering the exhibition and post-season games, the team's record reads twelve wins and six losses, including two wins over St. Joe, which made a very successful season indeed.

Coach Stewart whipped the fellows up in fine shape to put on their best games against the toughest teams, defeating Drury twice during the season, extending the champion Adams team to their utmost to win in an overtime period, and crushing our greatest rival, St. Joe, in two hard-fought games. However, the season had its darker spots, and the losses to Bennington and Williamstown in the latter part of the year were the most disappointing. Both came about as our rivals overcame leads to win in the fourth quarter when P. H. S. failed to click. St. Joe of North Adams and Dalton were both beaten twice with little trouble.

Capt. Dick Farnham was always a leader, putting in a grand all-around game in addition to scoring many crucial points against Williamstown, Drury, and especially against Adams when he tied the ball game up with but three seconds to go. Don Kasuba had class enough to be named All-Berkshire center. A high scorer, he hit double figures in most of the games he played. An outstanding defensive man was Bus Hayes. Armand Quadrozzi, who has been elected next year's captain, scored heavily throughout the season. Jack Leahy and Al Bianchi both put on rugged defensive jobs as they shared a guard position. Jimmy Bacon and Art Ditmar were both valuable assets to the team's success. Bob Archambeault, Eddie Ferriera, and Marsh Wood saw occasional substitute duty.

Ski Team

The 1946 ski team did a fine job of upholding the honor and glory of Pittsfield High by placing first among thirteen schools in the Berkshire Interscholastic Ski Meet held at the Pittsfield State Forest this year. Under the skillful coaching of Mr. John Ericson and Mr. Willard Bridgham the team not only won this meet, but was chosen to represent Massachusetts in the New England Finals held at Lebanon, New Hampshire. Exhibiting some fine skiing and giving the other fourteen schools some good competition, they finished in sixth place. However, being a rather small but spirited team, they are anxious for another crack at the meet, confident that they will win next year.

HOCKEY SQUAD

Rear Row—Zullo, McCarron, Calnan, Leonard, Connors, Ahlen, Coach Carmody.

Hockey Team

With cold weather and satisfactory ice conditions, the Pittsfield High hockey team started a very light season under the coaching of John T. Carmody. Led by the acting-captain, Norman Higgins, the boys fought hard in the season-opener with Holyoke High at the Common rink for a tie of 3 to 3. As arranging games with other schools became impossible because of changing weather conditions, our spirited team ended its season with a return match with Holyoke at Holyoke. Losing the game by the narrow margin of 4 to 2, however, could not discourage the team, which is anticipating a heavier and better schedule in 1947.

BASEBALL TEAM

Front Row—Creer, Goewey, Parker, Caden, Quadrozzi, Villanova, Adeson, Mele.

Middle Row—Robak, Wood, Troy, Prendergast, Lander, Bianchi, Leahy, Ditmar, Arpante.

Rear Row—Smith, Welch, DeWitt, Shields, Mlynarczyk, Wheeler, O'Hearn, Bouchane, Manager.

Baseball

AS the baseball season approaches, P. H. S. looks forward to a championship in the Northern Berkshire League with little opposition expected from the other schools. Our traditional rival, St. Joseph's, has few veteran ballplayers left and will not be a serious contender for the league title.

Co-captains Jack Lander and Robert "Bees" Prendergast will lead a team of experienced ball-players, some of whom are back from last year and others who were American Legion players. The squad at this time includes the following candidates: Norman Carmel, a .380 hitter last year, and Pete Caden for first base; Donnie Troy and Nick Melle for second base; Bob Villanova, Marshall Wood, and Bob Adeson for short-stop; and Jack Leahy and Bob Parker for third base. The leading outfielders are Jack Lander, Rit Arpanti, and Walter Robak, and the catching will be taken care of by Al Bianchi and Walter Creer. Fitching will be amply provided for by two highly regarded men, "Bees" Prendergast and Art Ditmar, with Armand Quadrozzi and Walt Robak also sharing the mound duties. John Goewey and Bob Heidel are two senior pitchers from last year's team.

Lee has been beaten twice in exhibition games, and as we go to press, Coach Stewart is choosing the team that has already been given the best chance to win the championship by sports writers and other observers throughout the county. If the fellows hustle and play their best baseball, they're sure to fulfill their expectations.

Field Hockey

WHEN we were sophomores we answered to the field hockey call, and with high spirits but nebulous minds we proceeded to the hockey field to learn this exciting game. In the first field hockey tournament back in the fall of '43, our 1946 team had no wins to its credit. This was very discouraging at the time but we could offer the excuse—"After all, we're only sophomores." The next fall we were determined to show our real skill. We advanced to a first-place tie with the seniors but were nosed out by but one point. When we took to the field in the fall of '45, we were the upper classmen and just had to win that tournament, for this was to be our last field hockey season. We met and conquered all our opponents and made for ourselves a gratifying record of four wins and no losses. We are proud of our field hockey record and regret that we can no longer look forward to the clashing of hockey sticks on the leaf-covered field behind Pittsfield High School.

1946 GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL TEAM

Volleyball

THE 1946 volleyball tournament was certainly a memorable one. When the hands on Miss Morgan's stop watch snipped off the remaining seconds in the last quarter of the game with the Juniors, the amazed Seniors found that they had been compelled to bow to a quick, well organized Junior team. After defeating a promising Sophomore team, the Class of '46 looked forward with determination to their next game with the Juniors. At last the fateful afternoon arrived. The locker rooms were buzzing with enthusiasm. The Seniors had but one purpose, and that was to defeat the Juniors and in so doing tie up the tournament. The Juniors, on the other hand, were equally determined to defeat the upperclassmen and win the championship. When the smoke of battle began to clear, it was evident that that Junior team had done it again. 1946 had been vanquished. Congratulations, 1947!

Girls' Basketball

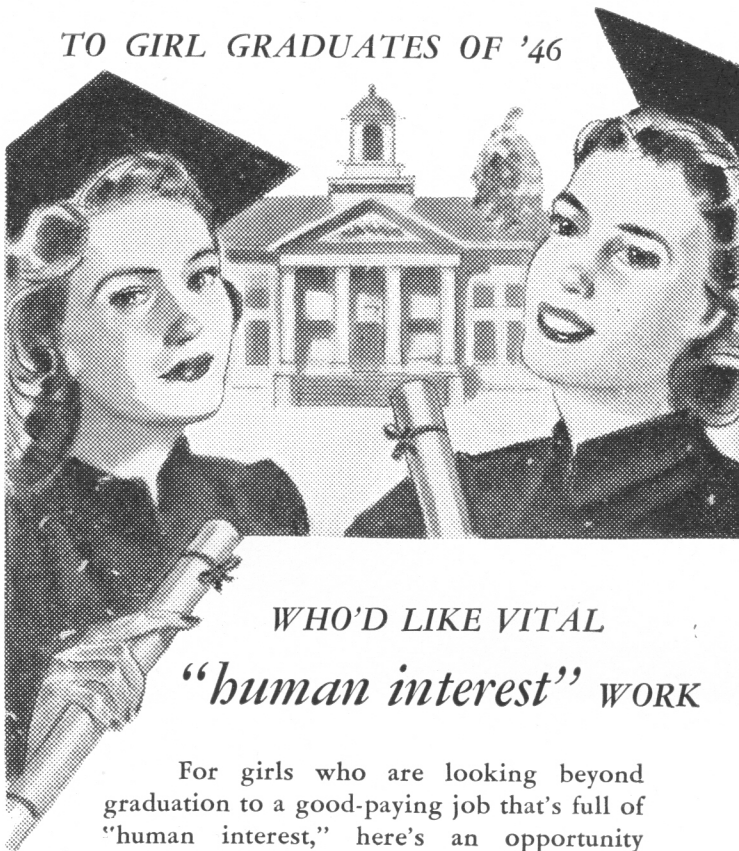

BASKETBALL has for many years been the most popular sport for the girls of P. H. S. In the winter of '43, when 1946 as sophomores, met in the gym for the first basketball practice, it looked as though half of the Sophomore class was out to make the team. Time passed and the numbers slowly dwindled until a team was chosen. In our first tournament, in true sophomore fashion, we bowed to the upperclassmen. But our day was not far off. Our pride was restored in our junior year, when with absolute disregard for tradition, we won the basketball championship by defeating the Seniors.

In the 1946 tournament, the Class of '46 again came out on top, winning two games to the Juniors one, in a fast and exciting series. With two championships tucked under our belts, we are ready to retire gracefully and leave the field to the incoming Seniors.

WHO'D LIKE VITAL
"human interest" WORK

For girls who are looking beyond graduation to a good-paying job that's full of "human interest," here's an opportunity worth investigating.

The Telephone Company has several openings for girls finishing high school. Recent high school graduates who've become telephone girls find the work interesting; associates friendly; surroundings pleasant.

Seniors should look into this opportunity. Training courses may be arranged so as not to interfere with studies or graduation, and can usually be given right in the home town. Sign up right away and receive pay while learning.

Trusses—fitted by experienced operators. Consultation at any time but fitting done by appointment only—except in Emergency. A case may be simple and easily fitted or it may present time consuming difficulties. Either type merits the undivided attention of the fitter and the unhurried time of both wearer and fitter. The truss should not cause its wearer appreciable discomfort which, if present, usually indicates faulty fitting or the use of an unsuitable model. Such a condition should be promptly corrected as an incorrectly fitted truss may do more harm than good. For maximum protection a truss should be replaced within two years. Advice and adjustments are yours for the asking. We make no charge beyond the initial cost of the appliance which in single trusses regularly stocked ranges from $3.50 to $10.00 and in double trusses from $6.50 to $18.00. IN HOMES using gas for cooking, water heating, refrigeration and house heating, the household routine is never upset. Your Gas Company has been serving its customers for more than ninety-two years without an interruption in service.

The gas range, refrigerator, water heater and house heating burner are sturdy and durable in construction, giving years of service with no costly repairs. Housewives cooking with gas, the live-flame fuel, find it fast, flexible, dependable and economical. The burners deliver heat instantly and in any degree from the tiny simmer flame to the fast, full heat of the giant burner. The air-conditioned ovens turn out products of perfection at a minimum of cost. Plan to make the heart of your new kitchen a modern gas range.

A Day's Work In A Day

The experience of 87 years in the training of young people is behind the student who attends BERKSHIRE BUSINESS COLLEGE. The strongest recommendation that he will have is that he has learned well to do "A Day's Work in A Day".

The courses offered in ACCOUNTING and SECRETARIAL TRAINING are outstanding and will withstand the most searching investigation that the prospective student wishes to make.

Fads, frills and unnecessary subjects are omitted from these courses thus permitting the student to devote his full time to the essential subjects.
